Form 990, Part III, Line 4a - Program Service Accomplishments

Our Global Network and Water Projects: Blue Planet Network has developed a global, online network, the Peer Water Exchange (PWX), www.peerwater.org to:

1. Give water groups around the world a way to:

a. collaborate and manage sustainable, cost-effective water solutions;

b. share learning and best practices transparently;

2. Offer companies, philanthropists and individuals a single source to:

a. fund high quality water and sanitation projects that have been "pre-approved" by PWX member peer review, and;

b. see the tangible impact of their support.

3. Review and fund high potential water and sanitation projects in rural areas of developing countries and ensure long-term maintenance and education for maximum project impact.

We have leveraged the collective resources and brainpower of water groups & individuals around the world. A common online platform to foster collaboration, fund high potential projects, & share experience and project data strengthens all individual efforts and creates new ones...all for the benefit of those without access to safe drinking water. Together, we have enabled over 300 water and sanitation projects in 27 countries, bringing safe drinking water for life to nearly one million people. Since inception we have hosted $40 million of water and sanitation project data on-line in a format that is available for all 94 member stakeholders (and anyone else interested) to learn from.

Public Education & Events: The Organization published and printed a major book in 2007 and continued efforts to disseminate it during 2012. The primary purpose of the book was to educate readers about the safe drinking water crisis.

In addition, we have developed a comprehensive school curriculum on the global water crisis, its origins, impact and near/long-term solutions. We have disseminated this curriculum extensively throughout middle and high schools and universities throughout the United States. Our curriculum has been integrated into school courses as part of regular and after school education. We also have partnered with Project Wet, a national non-profit dedicated to building awareness of the global water crisis and individual commitment to conserving water and preserving the global safe water resources.

Events are carried out each year to promote awareness in the general public of the still unfunded need for safe drinking water in many areas of the world.
